Sut Lovengood's Lizards.

$8--EIT DULLER REW-ARD.

This cash will be paid in corn or produce, to be collected at in or about our next camp meetin by any one what catches him, for the carcass of wun Satty Lovengood, ded or alive, an safely gin over to the care of Passon John Bullin, at Squire mac Jinkins, for a raisin ov the devil permiscusly, discomfortin the women powerfully, an a skarin folks generally, at ratil snaix springs big meetin, signed by me. John Bullin, the Passon.

Attested in by Jehu Wethoron.

I found written copies of the above highly intelligible and vindictive proclamation stuck up on every blacksmith shop, doggerly and store door in the Frog Mountain Range. Its bloodthirsty, vindictive spirit, its style, and above all, its choreography, interested me to the extent of stealing one from a tree for preservation.

In a few days I found Sut in a good crowd in front of Capeheart's small doggerly, and as he proved to be about "in tune," I read it to him.

"Yes, George, that ar documint am in yarnist, sartin. They does want me powerful bad, but I speet eit dollars won't fetch me. I'll go myself for fifty, planked down, ef you'll go along an see me hev justice. Lite, lite ole fellow, and let that roan of yours blow a little, an I'll explain this cussed affair what has ruined my karakter as a pious pusson in the society about here. Ye see, I went to last year's big meetin at Ratil Snaix Springs, and were settin in a nice shady place in the huckleberry thicket conversin with a buckle when the first thing I know'd I woke from a trance, what I'd been knock'd inter by a four year old hickory stick in the han of ole Passon Bullin, durh his aligator looking hide! and he wur standin a straddle ov me, foamun at the mouth an a preachin tu me about sartin sins an my wickedness generally. My poor friend wur gone, and I was glad ov it, for I thought he ment to kill me with his club, if he failed to preach me tu deth, an I didn't want her to see me die."

"Who was that friend you speak of Sut?"

"None of your business, durh your little ankshus picter! But I'll tell you one thing, George; that night a neighbor gal got an awful confounded strappin from her mother with a stirrup leather, an old Passon Bullin had eat supper thar that night; an what's wur norall, she cooked it for him an begged him a tremblin an a cryin not to tell on her, the durned, infernal, hippercritikel, pot-bellied, whisky-wasting old ground hog. But I paid him for it all, ef I haint I will. Well, at the next big meetin at the Ratil Snaix, I wur on hand, as solemn as a hat carrier at collection time, for I had promised the old hog to come an git converted, jist to keep him from killin me. I took a seat on the steps of the pulpit, to prove I wur earnest. There was a monstrous crowd in the grove, an old Bullin wur a preachin to them at an oral rate--how the Hell Sarpints would serve em ef they didn't repent--how they would crawl over them, rap their tales round their necks, poke their tongues into their eyes and blow inter their ears; an if it wur a woman, how they'd quile down in her bussun, and try to crawl under her frock string. An he had em hot, a hollerin, an dredfully skeered; the fact is, the thing was workin powerful. Now I'd cotcht five big gray pot bellied lizards, an had em in a little narrer bag what I'd made a purpose--thar tails all at the bottom, an packed as tite as a bundle ov sticks.

So while he wur a roarin onto his tip-toes, unbeknownst to anybody, I untied my lizard bag, an put the mouth up under his briches leg, an gin thar legs a squeeze an a shake, when they all took up his bar leg, making of a nois sorter like squirrels climbing a shell-bark hickory. He stopped preechin an looked for a moment like he wur listenin for somethin, sorter like an old sow does when she hears you whistle for the dogs. I give a big groan, an held my hed betwix my knees. Then he commenced a slappin of himself whar you cut the steak out of a beef, then he'd fetch a rub whar a horse's tail sprouts, then he'd stomp, then run his hand between his waistban an his shirt, and reach down an round mightily with it--then he'd spread his legs an give his back a good shakin, sort ov a rub agin the pulpit like a hog scratches himself again a stump; a leaning to his work powerful, an squirming generally as if he'd jist cum out ov a dog bed or had slept on a piasant trail. About this time one of my lizards (scared, I suppose, by all this rubbin an scratchin and slappin) poked his head out between the passon's shirt collar and his old brown neck, tuck a peep at circumstances an dodged back agin.

Old Bullin's speech now cum back to him; his eyes stickin out like the buck-eyes hung agin a mud wall, an his voice a tremblin. Sez he: "Brethrin, take care ov yourselves, the Hell Sarpint have got me!" Sum ov the wimin fotched a painter yell, an a ramrod-legged doctor, what set near me, allowed it wur a clear case of Delicious Tremendjus, an I thought he wur right, for it wur tremendjus afore it wur done with. Off went the clay hammer coat, an he flung it behind him like he wur goin into a fight (he had no jactin on). Next he fotch his shirt over his head faster nor I got out ov my pasted wun, an he flung it up in the air like he didn't care a darn if it kept up forever, but it lodged onto a blackjack. I seed one of my lizards a racin around over the big old dirty looking shirt, scared like the devil. Then old Bullin he gin a sorter shake an a twist as he cum outen his briches, an he took em by the bottom ov the legs an swung em round his head a few times an then fetcht them down ker-wallop over the front of the pulpit. Yu cud have heard the smash a quarter of a mile. Nigh onto about fifteen shortened biskits, a briled chicken with his legs crossed, a big double-bladed knife, a slab of terbacker, a pipe, some copper ore specimens, a heap of broken glass, a sprinkle of whisky, an three of my lizards, flew permiscusly all over thar ar meetin ground outen the upper end ov them big flax britches. Wun of the smartest of my lizards lit head fust inter the busom ov an old fat woman as big as a skinned hoss and nigh onto as ugly, who sot thirty yards off a fannin herself with a turkey tail, an smart tu the last, the lizard commenced runnin down.

So she wur bound to faint, an did it fast rate; jist flung her tukey tail up in the air, rolled down the hill, tangled her legs an garters in the top of a huckleberry bush, an wur thar all safe, fair an quiet when I left.

Now old Bullin had nothin left on him but a pair of heavy low quartered shoes, short woolen socks an el skin garters to keep off the cramp, an his scare wur a growin on him fast. He wur plum crazy, for he jist spit in his hands and leaped over the front of the pulpit rite inter the middle of the pious part of the congregation, kerdoff, an sot in tu gettin away. He run, or rather went in a lumberin gallop, heavy, like an old wagon hoss skeered at a locomotive. When he jumped a bench he shook the yearth, and his self too. Bonnets an fans cleared the way, an he had a perfectly clear track to the woods. He weighed nigh onto three hundred, had a black stripe down his back like a bridle rein, and his belly looked about the size an color of a big beef paunch, an it wur a shakin from side to side. He leaped back from it like a little feller totin of a big drum at muster. Thar wur cramp knots on his legs as big as warnuts, an all over he mided me of a crazy old elephant what wur possessed of the devil, with his ears, snouts an tusches sawed off an rared up an a gwine on his hind legs away from immediate trouble an tribulation. He did the loudest an scariest an funniest runnin I ever seed since dad raced the hornets, to be no faster than it wur.

Well, he disappeared in the thicket, an of all the noises you ever heard it wur thar in a circle of two hundred feet or tharabouts--sum wimin screamin--they was the scary ones; sum larlin--they was the wicked ones; sum cryin--they was the foolish ones (sorter of the Lovengood stripe); sum tryin to get away or hide thar faces--they was the modest ones; some lookin after old Bullin--they was the curious ones; some hangin to thar beaus--they was the sweet ones; some on thar knees with thar eyes shot, but thar faces turned the way the old mud turtle was runnin--they was the deceitful ones; sum doin nothin--they was the waitin ones; and the most dangerous of the whole of em by a durned long site. I took a durned big skeler myself, arter a bibel as big as a brick, a discipline, an sich like fruit spattered onto the pulpit ni onto my head, an as the Lovengoods, durn em! knows nothin but to run when the git scared, I jist put toward the swamp on the krick. As I started, a black bottil of baldface smashed agin a tree forninst me. Sum durned fool perfesser done this who had more zeal than sense; for I say that any man that wud waste a quart of good whisky for the chance of knocking a poor devil like me down with it, if the bottil wudn't wuth nothin, isn't as smart as old Squire Macmullin was, an he shot himself with a hoe handil, and warn't loded at that. Well, you know, George, I orter run fast--jist look at these legs--I used em sum atween that meetin groun an the swamp, an they aint cotch me yet.

Ole Barbelly Bullin (as they call him) since his tribulation with the Hell Sarpint's, aint preached but once, an then he hadn't an omen to hear him. His text was "nakid I cum into this world, an I'm agwine out on it the same way ef I'm spared till then." I'm told it wur a powerful sarmin--it wur heard three miles. He proved that nakidness wur not much after all, if you take the right view of the thing--that hell sarpint of all sizes wur scarey, cold an troublesum,--that it arnt to be expected of him, a poor weak frail one of the dust, to be sarpint or lizard proof either--that one small sarpint of the tribe of Melksidie ruined a world through a o'man--while he wur beset by a barrel full of them. An sixteenethly an finally that Sut Lovengood is the mountain range.

Now, George, that may be all so, but I want you to tell old Grounhog this for me--ef he'll let me alone, I'll let him alone; an ef he don't, I wish I may be durned into a poultice if I don't lizard him again. Let's go tu the spring and mix a little of it with this yere (shaking his flask) afore you start. Mind, tell ole Barbelly what I said about another big skeler, with--say peck--ur a peck an a half ov lizzards--try and skeer him if you kin--good bye.

A BOY'S LETTER.--Now, Bob, I'll tell you what I want. I want you to come down here for the holidays. Don't be afraid. Ask your sister to ask your mother to ask your father to let you come. It's only ninety miles. The two prentices, George and Will, are here to be made farmers of: and brother Nick is took home from school to help in agriculture. We like farming very much, it's capital fun. We four have got a gun and go shooting. It's a famous good one, and sure to go off if you don't full cock it. Tiger is to be our shooting dog, as soon as he has left off killing sheep. He's real savage, and worries cats beautifully. Before father comes down we mean to bait our bull with him. There's plenty New Rivers about, and we're going fishing as soon as we mend our top joint. We've a pony, too, to ride upon, when we catch him; but he is loose in the paddock, and has neither mane nor tail to signify, to lay hold of. Isn't it prime, Bob? You must come. If your mother wont give your father leave to allow you, run away. Remember you turn up Goswell Street to go to Lincolnshire, and ask for Wilefen Hall. There's a pond full of frogs, but we won't pelt them till you come; but let it be before Sunday, as there is our own orchard to rob, and the fruits to gather on monday. If you like sucking raw eggs, we know where the hens lay, and mother don't; and I'm bound there's lots of birds nests. Do come Bob, and I'll show you the wasp's nests, and every thing that will make you comfortable. I dare say you could borrow your father's volunteer musket of him without his knowing it; but be sure and bring the ramrod, as we have mislaid ours by firing it off.--Hood.

HOW TO BE MISERABLE.--Sit by the window and look over the way at your neighbor's elegant mansion, which he has recently built and paid for, and then sigh out--"Oh, that I was a rich man!"

Get angry with your neighbor, and think you have not a friend in the world. Shed a tear or two, and take a walk in the burial ground, continually saying to yourself--"When shall I be buried here?"

Sign a note for a friend, and never forget your kindness, and every hour of the day whisper to yourself--"I wonder if he will ever pay that note?"

Think that everybody means to cheat you. Closely examine every bill you take, and doubt its being genuine till you have put the owner to a good deal of trouble. Believe every ninepence passed an you, is but a six-pence crossed, and express your doubts about getting rid of it should you venture to take it.

Put confidence in nobody, and believe every man you trade with to be a rogue. Never accommodate, if you can possibly help it. Never visit the sick or afflicted, and never give a farthing to assist the poor.

Buy as cheap as you can, screw down to the lowest mill. Grind the faces and hearts of the unfortunate.

Brood over your misfortunes, your want of talents, and believe that at no very distant day you will come to want. Let the workhouse be ever in your mind, with all the horrors and distress of poverty.

Follow these recipes strictly, and you will be miserable to your heart's content--if we may so speak--sick at heart and at variance with all the world. Nothing will cheer or encourage you--nothing throw a gleam of sunshine or a ray of warmth into your heart.

EXPENSIVE OX FEED.--Mr. Thomas G. Harris of Wright, Ottawa County, Mich., received $205 in greenbacks, which he placed in his dinner pail in his cart, to which he afterward hitched his oxen, and, when absent, one of them upset the pail, swallowed the dinner, and took the greenbacks for desert. The ox was immediately killed, and the money found uninjured.

A LADY who has been reading law is in the most fearful and agonizing doubts regarding the legality of her marital condition. She says "lotteries are illegal, and marriage is the greatest lottery in life."

BOYS OUT AT NIGHT.--The following observations of "A True Friend of the Boys" are so important, and the evil decreed in them is so common, that we desire to impress them on the notice of parents and guardians, with all the emphasis of editorial recommendation.

"I have been an observer, as I am a sympathising lover of boys. I like to see them happy, cheerful, gleesome. Indeed, I cannot understand how a high-toned useful man can be the ripened fruit of a boy who had not enjoyed the full share of the glad privileges due to youth. But while I watch with a jealous eye all rights and customs wich intrench upon the proper rights of boys, I am equally apprehensive lest parents who are not forethoughtful, and who have not habituated themselves to close observation on this subject, permit their sons indulgences which are almost certain to result in their demoralization, if not in their total ruin. And among the habits I have observed as tending most surely to ruin, I know of none more prominent than that of parents permitting their sons to be in the streets after nightfall. It is ruinous to their morals in all instances.

They acquire, under the cover of night, an unhealthy state of mind--bad, vulgar, immoral and profane language, obscene practices, criminal sentiments, a lawless and riotous bearing. Indeed, it is in the street, after nightfall, that the boys principally acquire the education of the bad, and capacity for becoming rowdy, dissolute, criminal men. Parents should in this respect have a rigid and inflexible rule, that will not permit a son, under any circumstances whatever, to go in the streets after nightfall, with a view of engaging in out-of-door sports or meet other boys for social chance occupations. A right rule of this kind invariably adhered to will soon deaden the desire for such dangerous practices.

Boys should be thought to have pleasure around the family center table, in reading, in conversation, and in quiet amusements. Boys are seen in the streets after nightfall, behaving in a manner entirely destructive of all good morals.

Fathers and mothers, keep your children home at night, and see that you take pains to make your home pleasant, attractive, and profitable to them; and, above all, with a view of their security from future destruction, let them not become, while forming their characters for life, so accustomed to disregard the moral sense of shame as to openly violate the Sabbath-day in street pastimes.

THE amount of money found in letters at the Dead Letter Office during the last year, was over $80,000, being an excess of $20,000 on the amount of the previous year. This increase was supposed to be principally due to the large number of soldiers' letters, which are misdirected and other causes, could not be delivered.

PRENTICE SAYS: "If anybody is dissatisfied with Federal money, let him go South and get Confederate money. If anybody is dissatisfied with United States taxes, let him go South and pay southern taxes. If anybody is dissatisfied with the United States enrollment, let him go South and enjoy the benefits of the southern conscription."

RATHER unexpected was the reply of the little urchin, who, on being arraigned for playing marbles on Sunday, and sternly asked, "Do you know where those little boys go who play marbles on Sunday?" replied innocently--"Yes; some of 'em goes down to the common, and some on 'em goes down by the side of the river."

MERCHANTS are shrewd men. A trader in modern Athens being asked the character of one given to poetry, described him as one of those men who have soarings after the indefinite, and divings after the unfathomable, but never pay cash.

"POLLY, dear," said a loving husband to his spouse, who was several years his junior, "what do you say to settling at the Cape?" "Oh! I'm delighted with the idea! You recollect when Morgan went out there he was as poor as we are, and he died in three years worth two thousand pounds!"

"WHAT did you mean, Sir?" fiercely asked a judge of an Irish culprit before him, who had just been brought in guilty of marrying successively fourteen wives and deserting them all. "Please yer Honor," was the immoral but ingenious reply, "I was trying to get a good one."

SOME persons would seem to have a right to spend their lives in trifling, since nature set the example by trifling when she made them.

AMONG the conditions of sale by an Irish auctioneer was the following: "The highest bidder to be the buyer, unless some other gentleman bids more."

WHY is an omnibus like the head of a firm? Because there is room for one more to be taken in.

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 15TH, 1863

APPOINTMENT.—Hon. J. N. Hoag has been appointed County Judge, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of L. R. Hopkins.

In our advertising columns this week will be found the Union Ticket, and also the speaking appointments of the Yolo county Union candidates.

THE usual price for crushing and amalgamating silver ore, in the mills which do custom work in the Esmeralda District, is $25 per ton.

TO THE LADIES.—We would call the attention to the advertisement in another column of O'Connell, Ryan & Co., 83 J street, between Third and Fourth, Sacramento.

In another column will be found the advertisement of R. H. McDonald & Co., wholesale and retail dealers in all kinds of Drugs and Medicines, 138 J street, between Fifth and Sixth, Sacramento.

PUBLIC SPEAKING.—On Monday evening there will be public speaking of both parties at Smith's Ferry. Mr. Rackerby informs us that the ferry will be free; he also invites all those who go to hear the speaking, to partake of his peaches and watermelons—free.

DEMOCRATIC MEETING.—The democracy held quite a spirited meeting on Friday evening of last week, in front of the Yolo House, in this place. The meeting was called to order by electing the Hon. H. Gwinn as President, who addressed the meeting at some length in usual earnest manner, at the conclusion of which the Hon. Tod Robinson was introduced to the crowd. He made one of those able argumentative and profoundly logical speeches, for which this gentleman is so distinguished. At the conclusion of Judge Robinson's address, W. W. Pendegast, Esq., of Woodland, was called for, who responded to the call briefly but pertinently, and was followed by Dr. Downing, candidate for Assembly. The hour being so far spent, the latter gentleman occupied but a few moments, promising the crowd a more elaborate argument at another time. The best order prevailed during the meeting, and the speakers were listened to with profound attention by both ladies and gentlemen.

GROSS CARELESSNESS—LOOK OUT.—The Calaveras Times says:

In the hurry of Legislation last winter, a grave error was permitted to creep into the law providing for the issuing of bonds for the completion of the "Deaf, Dumb and Blind Asylum" of the state. The evident intention of the Legislature was to levy a tax of three-fourths of a mill for such purposes, but instead of that, as the law passed, it requires a tax of three-fourths of one per cent, which, if enforced will raise a revenue of one million and two hundred thousand dollars, to pay the interest on bonds to the amount of ninety thousand dollars, issued to aid in the erection of the Asylum. * * *

We have seen a letter from the Secretary of State, to our County Treasurer, in which he confirms our assertion, that if the people vote favorably on the proposition, they will tax themselves $1,200,000, unnecessarily. Simply to pay the interest on $90,000 worth of bonds. The proposition should be defeated by the people, and the next Legislature can correct this evident error.

EXECUTION OF MICHAEL BRITTON.—A dispatch from Napa gives the following under date of Aug 7th:

Michael Britton was executed to-day for the murder of J. W. Osborn. He was taken out of his cell at a few minutes past 3, and when about to ascend the scaffold, he resisted, and had to be tied and led up. As soon as he was upon the scaffold, he looked around and said in a vindictive tone, "I have nothing to say. If any one wishes to ask any questions of me I will answer them." As preparations for the execution were progressing, he said: "All I am sorry for is I have been so insulted in life, I could not act the part of a gentleman." The drop fell at 3:20 o'clock, and he died without scarcely a struggle. Upon examination, there was found upon his arm, in India ink, the name of Michael Conroy. He was attended by Rev. Mr. Daggett, of Napa, and Rev. M. Reardon of Vallejo, but they did not succeed in making any impression on him. He treated their attentions with ridicule and jest.

During his imprisonment he has not uttered a single word of regret for the crime he had committed, and when upon the scaffold his countenance bore the impress of a villain of the deepest dye. When the Sheriff was reading the warrant and came to "alias Michael Britton," he said "Damn the aliases!"

SOME OF THE CIRCUMSTANCES OF THE REMOVAL OF GEN. HOOKER.—An eastern journal says:

We are permitted to publish the following extract of a letter from a personal friend of Gen. Hooker. We publish it, believing it may correct, in some degree, public impressions that are as erroneous as they are unjust:

You may feel some interest in knowing that I spent last Sunday in Baltimore with Gen. Hooker. He rejoices as earnestly as any other person in the success of Gen. Meade, but feels most deeply the injustice done himself. It is some evidence, I think, of Hooker's fitness to command, that Meade took the army precisely as he left it, with the exception of reinforcements, and found it so ready for action and victory. You may ask, Why did not Hooker lead it to action and victory? The reason is simply this—that reinforcements were withheld from him which were given to Meade on the very day that he assumed command. Ever since the invasion began Hooker has been pleading for those reinforcements. He had said to Gen. Halleck and the War Department: "I am able, with the force I have, to whip Lee, but not to capture his army. The country will not be satisfied if Lee is permitted to get back, and he may as easily be captured as whipped. Give me Couch and the garrison (10,000 men) at Harper's Ferry." Halleck refused. Having command at Harper's Ferry, Hooker then took the responsibility and ordered the evacuation. Halleck countermanded the order. Hooker then telegraphed: "I now demand reinforcements, or I earnestly beg to be relieved of my command." He was relieved, and the very messenger who brought Halleck's order to Meade brought the order giving him the forces for which Hooker had waited and begged in vain. Such is a simple statement of the facts. I said to the General, "It is too bad that you should have that splendid prize so near your hand and not be allowed to pluck it." He replied with a quivering lip, "It is a hard fortune."

I give you my word that the stories about his drunkenness are utterly false. So far from being drunk at Chancellorsville, the fact is that he was made insensible by a cannon shot against a column upon which he was leaning, and spirits were wanted for his use by the surgeon, not a drop could be found at his quarters, and it was long before it could be obtained.

Female Beauty.

Ladies whose complexion is not as clear as they could wish, instead of resorting to those poisonous preparations in the form of Cosmetics, &c., should use Dr. Guyott's Compound of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla. By purifying the blood and enlivening the respiration it gives clearness to the complexion, brightness to the eye and elasticity to the step—

"Leaving that beautiful which was so, And making that so which was not."

Vexatious eruptions on the face resulting from want of exercise or sluggish circulation of the blood, at once disappear under its influence, leaving a rich bloom of health, that no cosmetic can impart. Ladies who have tried it express themselves surprised and delighted.

Melancholy Suicide.

On Sunday morning last R. St. John committed suicide by shooting himself in the head with a pistol. The particulars are given in the coroner's inquest, proceedings of which are published below. Mr. St. John was a quiet, industrious man, and followed the manufacture of Dulcimers (a musical instrument on the same principle as the piano) for a livelihood. He was not embarrassed in circumstances, and his suicide was evidently from the impulse of the moment and not preconcerted, as he left nothing in writing or otherwise, to indicate that he contemplated such an act. He was in good health, and a large, robust man, in the prime of life. He leaves three orphan children, two daughters and one son, the oldest 12 years, who by his death are deprived of their last parent.

The following is the testimony given at the inquest:

Deposition of Dr. FRED. MORSE.—Question. State what you know in relation to this man's death.

Answer. I found him lying on his back on the floor in the bed-room. The wound in his head is quite sufficient to produce death, and from the nature and position of the wound I judge that it was made by a pistol shot, and from the direction and position of wound I think it was done with his own hand.

J. W. TUTTLE sworn and examined as witness.—Question. State what you know about this man's death, and the cause.

Ans. About seven o'clock this morning we were all in the kitchen in this house together—deceased, myself and wife—conversing as usual, when he got up and went into the dining room. After he had been gone about a minute, I came out and saw him standing in the bed-room with the pistol pointed at his head. I jumped toward him—he shot and fell. It was in my bed-room, where we slept.

Q. Did he know that you had a pistol there?

A. He knew that I kept it at the head of my bed, loaded.

Q. Was it your pistol?

A. It was.

Q. Had deceased a pistol?

A. I don't know; I never saw him have one.

Q. Do you know of his having trouble?

A. I have heard him talk of trouble about his wife.

W. H. BUNYARD sworn and examined as witness.—Q. Are you acquainted with this person lying before you?

A. Yes; he signed his name Ransom St. John.

Q. Do you know of his showing signs of being insane?

A. I don't know that I have. I have seen him when wiping out his pistol put it to his head and say he believed he would end his existence and put an end to his troubles, but only, as I supposed, in fun, in a jesting way.

Q. Where is deceased from?

A. He has told me that he was a native of Kentucky, but lately from Illinois.

Q. Did he seem to have been drinking this morning?

A. He did not.

MARY TUTTLE sworn and examined as witness.—Q. Where was you this morning when this shooting occurred?

A. I was in the kitchen. I turned to go toward the stove, and heard the shot and heard him fall.

Q. Did you hear him say anything about being in trouble?

A. He appeared to be in trouble about his wife. He came from Marysville yesterday. He had taken up the remains of his wife and re-buried her at Marysville. He said he opened the coffin, and she lay there and looked so sweet that he wished he was with her.

VERDICT:

"We the Coroner's Jury find from the evidence that the name of deceased is Ransom St. John, from the State of Illinois, age about 40 years. That he came to his death by the effects of a pistol shot discharged by his own hand, on the 9th day of August, 1863, at the town of Knight's Landing, Yolo county, State of California." (Signed)

J. P. Darlington, Edward Dyer, H. Eastham, S. T. Dodson, A. F. Burton, H. W. Bolin, U. C. Colony, J. W. Allen, J. E. Strain.

The above is the verdict rendered by the jury, on the 9th day of August, 1863.

E. RINEHIMER, J. P., Acting as Coroner.

ACCIDENTAL DROWNING.—A French youth, named Gustave Strahl, aged between eighteen and nineteen years, while bathing on Sunday evening in Sutter Slough, from the opposite bank, on the line of Fourth street, was taken with a cramp and drowned, notwithstanding the efforts of companions to rescue him. Deceased was an upholsterer, in the employ of Goodwin & Co., and had arrived in the State only about a year since, and arrived here on Thursday last. He leaves a brother and relatives at San Francisco. —Republican.

PAID LOYALTY.—The New York Herald says it has seen a list of 160 men who have in the last eighteen months made fortunes ranging from $1,000,000 to $4,500,000—some by shoddy contracts, some by selling bad vessels to the Government, &c.

The several districts then selected as their candidates for Assessors, as follows:

TOO LATE.—A company was lately formed called the Nevada Water Company, for the purpose of conveying the water of Lake Tahoe into Nevada Territory, to be used for general purposes. Capital $1,000,000. The Washoe Times of August 8th says there is a rival company in the case:

On a pine tree, close upon the shore of Lake Tahoe, and under whose shade we recently encamped for two nights, is a paper, elegantly written and signed by Richard Noyes, Amos T. Laird, John Grimes, and others, which is in the words and figures following, to wit:

"We have located and appropriated all the waters and tributaries of Washoe Lake Lake Bigler or Tahoe, Donner Lake, and Little Truckee Lake, and also of Truckee river and Little River, and all surplus and unappropriated waters thereof, sufficient to fill a ditch, flume, and aqueduct, as may be required on different portions of the route, and carrying 2,500 inches of water, of a pressure of six inches. We also give notice that we intend to divert the waters for the purposes of using the same from the points of diversion en route to and in the county of Storey, and other portions of the Territory of Nevada, for mining, manufacturing, mechanical, and domestic purposes; and we claim a right of way on each side of the line of ditch, flume, and aqueduct, of 100 feet, and sufficient of the timber in the neighborhood of the line necessary for the construction of our works."

THE San Francisco Board of Brokers has refused to allow any shares of the Grosche Silver Mining Company to be sold at the sessions of the Board.

THE last weeks dispatches to the daily papers are wholly void of important news, and so—being pretty well crowded in the advertising columns—we have excluded the dispatches for this time.

Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla

Will Cure without Fail

Scrofula or King's Evil, Cancers, Tumors, Eruptions of the skin, Erysipelas, Chronic Sore Eyes, Ringworm or Tetter, Scald Head, Rheumatism, Pains in the Bones and Joints, Old Sores and Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Diseases of the Kidneys, Loss of Appetite, Diseases arising from the use of Mercury, Pain in the Side and Shoulder, General Debility, Dropsy, Jaundice, Lumbago, &c.

Dr. Guyssott's Extract of Yellow

put up in the largest sized bottles, contains more of the Honduras Sarsaparilla than any other preparation extant, which is combined with the extract of Yellow Dock, the extract of Wild Cherry and the Balsam of Fir, thus making the remedy more thoroughly efficient than any other Sarsaparilla before the public. At the same time it is perfectly free from ALL mineral poisons, which can not be said of any other of the Sarsaparilla compounds. The invalid should beware of poisons. Mercury, Iron, Quinine, Potash, Iodine, Sulphur, Arsenic, and many other mineral and metallic poisons enter into and form the active basis of most of the Sarsaparilla and panaceas of the day. Guyssott's Compound Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla does not contain a particle of the substances; as any one can ascertain by applying the necessary tests.

These poisons may occasionally remove disease, but they so vitiate the blood and impregnate the whole system with their baneful effects, that the first cold or the first attack of disease, prostrates the patient's strength and subjects him or her to the most excruciating torture, and renders another cure almost impossible and hopeless. Let all poisonous Sarsaparilla preparations alone, and use Guyssott's Improved Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla, which is thoroughly efficacious, perfectly harmless and purely vegetable. All kinds of diseases yield to its genial influence.

Caution.—Beware of counterfeits. All genuine Dr. Guyssott's Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla has the name of JOHN D. PARK, Present Proprietor, Cincinnati, O., on the label.

Remember this fact when buying, all without the name of "JOHN D. PARK, Cincinnati, Ohio," on the label are counterfeits.

Sold by all Druggists.

THE Knight's Landing News.

SHOW FOR SHOW.—A story is told of a showman who carried about on exhibition an enormous bear. In a certain town in Vermont, where Bruin was attracting crowds, dwelt a farmer and his wife, and an interesting and multitudinous family of twenty children. Paterfamilias was very desirous of gratifying the commandable curiosity of his offspring, but the price of admission was one shilling, and that multiplied by the number of his olive plants, was too much for his exchequer. He therefore approached the showman, and after some parley, concluded a bargain by which the latter agreed to drive into the farmer's back yard with Bruin's cage, and give a private exhibition to the entire family for one dollar. This was done, to the great delight of the old folks and children, when the farmer proffered the compensatory dollar to the obliging showman. "Oh no," said the latter, "I can't take anything; it is no more a sight for your family to see my bear, than for my bear to see your family."

THERE resides in living flowers a latent charity, a power that is, to evolve this "bond of perfectness" from the sterile heart. When a man wants flowers, it is not to shut them up, but to place them in the light, to give them a conspicuous place. He is anxious that his pleasure should not be solitary. In his bargains he may desire no partner, in his inventions, which are to bring him lucre, he may shut himself up in the dark until they are completed, and may only shout his Eureka after he has fenced in his profits with a patent; but his flowers open his heart—he wants rich and poor, eye, every living thing, to see them.

OLD GENTLEMAN—"Look here, I'm rather in a hurry; where are your assistants?"
Hairdresser—"Why, they are both dyeing, Sir!"
Old Gent.—"Lord bless my soul—dyeing!"
Hairdresser—"Yes, Sir. One's dyeing a lady's hair up stairs, and the hother's engaged with a pair of hauburn whiskers in the next room."

"MY DEAR Ellen," said Mr. Softfellow to a young lady whose smiles he was seeking, "I have long wished for this sweet opportunity, but I hardly dare trust myself now to speak the deep emotions of my palpitating heart; but I declare to you, my dearest Ellen, that I love you most tenderly; your smiles would shed would shed—" "Never mind the woodshed," said Ellen, "go on with that pretty talk."

At a plowing match, some laborers were standing behind a party of ladies whose bonnets and crinolines hindered them from seeing what was going forward. One of them complained that he could not see the steam plow. "Of course not," retorted one of his companions, and added significantly, "Who can see through a woman?"

THE speaker who "took the floor," has been arrested for stealing lumber.
